Did you know that June is National Safety Month?

We are bringing everyone's favorite game back to Threshold in honor of this. Check the calendar for details. Safety month is a good time to take care of certain things around our houses and serves as a good reminder to update other things in our lives that may improve our healthy, safety, and overall well-being. Below you will find a small checklist to get you started:

- Ask if the batteries in all of the smoke detectors/carbon monoxide detectors have been replaced.
- Help your family/home staff to make sure the locks are working on all windows and doors.
- Go over emergency procedures and evacuation/escape plans with everyone in your house.
- Look inside and outside your house for things that may be unsafe. If you see something, tell someone!
- Now is a good time to talk to our family/home staff/guardian (which ever is most appropriate) to make sure our emergency medical information/paperwork is up-to-date.
- Safety is also as simple as replacing our worn out shoes that may cause us to trip, or purchasing clothes that fit us properly so that they are not a distraction at the workplace or during programming.
